THE IRISH VOTE.

For some reason or other Irishmen seem bound body and vote to the Democratic party. The New York Tablet, a leading Catholic paper, speaking on this point, says: "It is in many respects unfortunate for the Irish, both in a social and political point of view, that they have so closely allied themselves to one political organization. They have been so wedded to the Democratic party that their support is looked upon as certain; and, therefore, they are treated with little consideration when it comes to make up the ticket. In local offices Irish citizens are fairly represented; but when it comes to State or national matters the idea of giving an Irishman or a Catholic a place on the ticket is sneered down by the Democratic leaders. If Irishmen hold their own in municipal offices, it is simply owing to the fact that by their votes they can control local elections, and, therefore, cannot be totally ignored. As an indication of how deeply seated is this prejudice, even in the Democratic party, against us, though the Irish vote in this city is about one-half of the whole Democratic vote, still, if the name of the most worthy Irish-American citizen is mentioned for the office of Mayor, it is at once quashed, on the ground, that he will not be supported, simply because he was of Irish descent and bore an Irish name; and should he be a Roman Catholic, there is no chance for him at all. Should Charles O'Connor, or some other equally eminent Irish-American Catholic be put in nomination for the mayoralty, these very Democratic leaders who look upon the Irish as the tail of their political kite would combine in secret and vote for a Republican in preference to him. Have we not several instances of this? Have not our Irish-American citizens been subjected to unjust discriminations by the Democratic party? For example, in New York, the great stronghold of Democracy, no citizen of Irish birth has ever been permitted to fill the position of Governor, Mayor, Collector of the Port, or Postmaster under Democratic administrations, and only a few years since, when that able and pure man, Francis Kernan, was nominated for Governor of the State of New York, his name was scratched by sixty thousand Democrats, simply because he was of Irish descent and a Roman Catholic. In a political sense, the Democratic party owes us everything, the Republicans nothing; yet, it all truthfulness, it must be said that we have got a deeper recognition from the latter than the former. When the Republicans give nominations and office to Irishmen, they do so as a reward of merit and respectability, while the Democratic leaders, regardless of moral or social standing of parties, are influenced in their choice solely by the nomination power in controlling the votes of the barroom, or rowdy element. If we go through the government offices in Washington, or the Postoffice and Custom House in New York, we will find that a large percentage of the officials and employes are Irish, and that they are really men of education, energy and intelligence. As an instance of the liberty of the Republican towards the Irish-American ans, we mention the following appointments: Thomas Murphy and C. A. Arthur, both Irish-Americans, appointed Collectors of the Port of New York by President Grant; James Kelly, appointed Postmaster of New York by President Lincoln; General Patrick H. Jones, appointed to the same office by President Grant; Colonel Richard Crowley, appointed District Attorney for Northern New York by President Grant; Colonel James McLean, appointed Postmaster of Brooklyn by President Hayes; General J. B. Carr, elected Secretary of the State of New York. While firmly holding that the recognition of any nationality should never be permitted to interfere with the constitution or the rights of Americans, we are of the opinion that independence of action and good organization are necessary among our Irish fellow citizens, in order to secure the influence and privileges to which they are entitled. The Germans are consolidated by societies, and are less subject than the Irish to party influences. They are just as ready to vote for a Republican as a Democrat, if his record entitles him to their support. On this account their friendship is courted by both parties, and their influence is such that they have not only elected their own countrymen to the highest offices in the State, but have also a native born German in the Cabinet at Washington. If the Irish were more independent of party, and showed more respect for themselves by supporting good and worthy candidates for office, no matter by whom nominated, in preference to political hacks and professional politicians, they would soon command influence and respect with both parties.

DEMOCRATIC ENDORSEMENT OF GARFIELD.

"I will tell you whom I think the Republicans should nominate, and whom I consider THEIR STRONGEST MAN; he is a TRUE MAN, A MAN OF PRINCIPLE, AN HONEST MAN, AND WOULD MAKE A GOOD PRESIDENT FOR US ALL. Personally I consider him the BEST MAN you could nominate. I refer to General JAMES A. GARFIELD, of Ohio."—[Thomas A. Hendricks, 1876.]

"I have been his devoted friend for many years, and I am resolved that I never will believe that he does not deserve the affection that I have bestowed upon him. If he would carry the principles which regulate his private life into his public conduct, HE WOULD MAKE THE BEST CHIEF MAGISTRATE THAT WE HAVE EVER HAD."—[Jere Black.]

In the midst of the organized carnival of corruption which has been going on now for so many weary months and years at Washington, it is really satisfactory to catch glimpses now and then of HONESTY FOR HONESTY'S SAKE, and without consideration of party. General GARFIELD, of Ohio, is a Republican of Republicans, but it is his simple duty, which we gladly pay to him, to admit that HE HAS DONE MORE THAN ANY OTHER SINGLE MEMBER OF HIS PARTY, during the late session of Congress, to show that it is not impossible for a man to act with a Congressional majority, and yet to KEEP HIS SELF-RESPECT AND THE RESPECT OF HONEST MEN.—[New York World, before Garfield was a candidate.]

In consequence of the unwise restrictions laid upon banking by the new Constitution, another California bank has reduced its capital. The capital of the London and San Francisco Bank has been cut down from $600,000, to $420,000, it having been found impossible to use profitably the whole of the larger sum.

NO DISCRIMINATION.

"Every Republican in Washoe should vote for the Republican legislative ticket, and it would not be a bad idea for these Democrats who are deeply interested in the success of our local affairs to do the same thing."—[Journal.]

If the above means, as some say it does, that everything else on the ticket is to be traded off for the legislative ticket, we object. If any one chooses to vote for the opposition candidate for Sheriff or Assessor, he must be the judge. If he believes it to be the best interest of the county it is his duty to do so. But if some vain as on the legislative ticket want a big vote and trades his vote and that of his friends for other offices to get votes in return for himself, then we say all who are concerned in the transaction are doing a wrong, and one that will not go unpunished. If our candidates are as good as the Democratic candidates, why should we beat them? Why should we elect Walker and beat Berry? Why should Smith get Republican votes in exchange for Dawson or Frank Bell getting Democratic ones? If men go into politics let them go honest with each other there as elsewhere. If a man supports one side openly let him do it secretly as well. We say nothing against the Democratic candidates. If any one believes the county is better off in their hands let him vote for them, but if he is a Republican and believes the Republican candidates are good for him, why should he not give them his vote. Let us stand by our guns, and if we win or lose we will be respected a great deal more by the whole Democratic party than if we truckle and trade.

THE APPEAL AND THE STATE FAIR.

It seems to be a drawing card in Cason for the papers to abuse Reno, the GAZETTE has always been for peace and still can see no point where the interest of the two towns conflict. We have always desired to see two good fairs held, believing that better horses and more of them would turn out. Candid people can only wonder at the narrow and spiteful spirit manifested by the Appeal for the past few days. Friday it said: Carson, the Capital of the State, is the proper place for holding the State Fair, and with a little enterprize and the right people moving the matter, there is no reason why Carson should not in the future have the annual fair under its immediate patronage. The management of the fair of Nevada for several years past has not been of a nature to inspire confidence. Some of the managers have tried to do right, and others have simply sold the institution for selfish purposes. The money has not been judiciously extended, and many people have declined to have anything to do with the association, because some of the men connected with it were not looked on with favor. No man should ever be allowed to connect himself with a State Fair who is not considered thoroughly competent and honest. This year the managers have put up a particularly short-sighted policy. Carson has been one of the best patrons of the fair, and yet its local military company were led to believe that they would be allowed to drill for a prize until day before yesterday, when it was ascertained that the managers had decided to withdraw it. In consequence, the Carson people have concluded to resent the slight by remaining away from Reno during the fair. The Virginia military companies have also decided to have nothing to do with it, and there will be no crowd-mor shooting this year. The leading horsemen of the State have also been slighted, and discriminations were made in favor of California horses, which has caused several of the best horses in Nevada to be withdrawn. The money taken in by the management for years past appears seldom to have been sufficient for running expenses. Horse jockeys and gamblers seemed to be able to get paid long before newpapers could collect a dollar for legitimate advertisements. This year there was scarcely any advertising done at all. A State Fair is something of which a State should well feel proud. Nevada is not proud of the Reno Mining, Mechanical and Agricultural Society, and few people would regret to see it pass out of existence.

The above speaks for itself. The best horses in Nevada are in training at the track now. No Nevada horse have been withdrawn. The Trustees and citizens of Reno and Washoe county are all working hard to make a good fair. A prize of $100 has been put up for the Carson company, and if they come over here we will treat them just as well as we know how; then and everyone else from Carson, the Appeal man included.

THE PEOPLE'S DUTY TO THEMSELVES.

The taxpayers of the State of Nevada owe it to themselves to sustain the Supreme Bench as at present constituted. Under its decision taxes have been equalized and now the rich and poor are assessed alike and compelled to pay. The great mines, the rich railroads, the cattle lords and about every big man in the State has gone before the Supreme court and tried upon one or another to escape taxation, but in vain. The members of that body were out of the reach of prejudice or influence, and they decided every case in favor of an honest division of the burdens of government. The opposition which such a course would excite can be imagined, and it would be no more than natural for some of the big companies to try to defeat the members of the bench if they ever came up for reelection. One of the judges is now a candidate for reelection. His nomination was secured by the delegates to the Convention against the fiercest opposition, in accordance with instructions direct from a majority of the Republicans of this State. The people thus far have won their fight, and if they allow William H. Beatty to be defeated at the polls it is their own fault. Personally Judge Beatty is all that any man can ask. A gentleman of irreproachable character and habits. As a lawyer he enjoys an enviable reputation. He is as good a judge as Nevada ever had. Possessed of a singularly judicial mind, he holds the scales with even hand, and the law and the evidence pass for their simple value and no more. Judge Beatty also possesses, in a high degree, that quality so useful in every business in life from hanging a gate to writing a book, good common sense. No one need be told what our candidate will do if he is reelected. He will do his simple duty by his high office, influenced by neither party nor personal friendships.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Salt Lake Tribune says of Adelaide Neilson, the great actress recently deceased: "Neilson was really the daughter of a great Mormon prophet by a Scandinavian wife, and was born at San Pete, in this Territory, twenty-three years ago. Neilson inherited the flaxen hair from her mother and a certain magnetism and somewhat irregular proclivities from her father. From him too she received her wonderful faculty of always seeming to be young. She died also from the same disease. In her father's case it was made active by a dose of green corn. In Neilson's case a glass of cold milk did the business. Like her father she had a way of swindling people and at the same time making them feel grateful that they had been swindled."

A glance at the WEEKLY GAZETTE which goes out from this office to-day will be all the explanation needed to give of the rapid growth of the paper. There is not a paper in Nevada which is increasing its subscription as fast as the WEEKLY GAZETTE. There is hardly a day that new subscribers do not come in, and it is almost an unheard of thing for a man to stop it. Still we are not satisfied, but want more paying readers in order to make a better paper.

Mt. Everest, in Nepal, 29,000 feet high, has been considered the highest peak in the world, but the N. Y. Herald says that Capt. J. A. Lowson has discovered in the Island of New Guinea a mountain which he has named Hercules, whose summit is 32,786 feet above the level of the sea.

"Damn the flies" is never under any circumstances, an allowable expression. But, considering the exasperating tenacity and the aggressive persistence of the insect at this season, it is an expression for which there is often some degree of extenuation.

Half Dimes in San Francisco.

From the Bulletin.

We have at last got down to the price of five cent pieces without making wry faces. A great deal can now be accomplished with these coins that was formerly, and until quite recently, impossible. Boots are now polished for five cents at many of the stands. A cup of coffee for five cents is obtainable in many quarters. Even the despised nickel five cent piece is as current as the half dime. But anything smaller than five cents is still scorned at most of the retail establishments. Apples and pears will soon be sold in this city at one cent apiece, and a stick of candy or a doughnut at the same price. Whoever starts the innovation will receive the blessings of the poor and the children.

Too Keen for the Minister.

From Harper's Magazine.

A minister with a rather florid complexion had gone into the shop of a barber, one of his parishioners, to be shaved. The barber was addicted to a few bouts of drinking, after which his hand was, in consequence, unsteady at his work. In shaving the minister on the occaion referred to he cut sufficiently deep to cover the lower part of the neck with blood. The minister turned to the barber, and said, in a tone of a lesson severity, "Now, Thomas, what comes of taking too much drink."

"Av," replied Thomas; "it makes the skin turn red."

A BIRD'S CRIEF.

Remarkable Conduct of a Dove whose Mate was Killed by a Locomotive.

From the New York Sun.

A year or so ago a little girl living near the line of the Erie Railway, two miles from Rathboneville, N. Y., was presented with a pair of doves. They were in the habit of flying about in the vicinity. One day, three weeks ago, they were flying across the railway track, when the male bird came into collision with the smoke stack of the Pacific express, which passed the spot about 7 o'clock in the morning. The bird was killed by the shock, and instantly thrown out of the sight of its mate. The female circled about the spot for a few minutes, in evident amazement at the sudden disappearance of her mate. She then flew to a mile post near by, and for a long time gave utterance to the mournful notes characteristic of the dove. Suddenly she seemed to realize what had happened, and she rose from her nest, and flew swiftly in the direction the train had gone. She did not return until about noon. She alighted at her mate, where she remained the rest of the day, uttering her plaintive cries. Next morning, just before 7 o'clock, she was seen to fly away, and take a position on the mile post near the spot where she last saw her mate. She accompanied the locomotive for a mile or so, and then returned to her mate. Every day since then she has repeated this strange conduct. She goes to her look-out for the train at precisely the same time each morning, and waits until the train comes along, no matter how late it may be. She never goes further than about a mile with the train, returning then to her mate, and mourning piteously all day.

The Story of a Dog that Stood Guard Over a Child on a Railroad Track.

A gentleman just returned from Canada tells the following story: "A day or so ago the engineer of a train near Montreal saw a large dog on the track, barking furiously. The engineer whistled, but the dog paid no attention to the noise, and refused to stir. The dog was run over and killed. The engineer observed that the animal crouched close to the ground as he was struck by the locomotive. A minute later the fireman saw a bit of white muslin fluttering on the locomotive, and he stopped the engine. On going back to where the dog was killed it was discovered that not only the dog, but a little child, had been killed. It was then seen that the dog had been standing guard over the child, and barked to attract the attention of the engineer. The faithful animal had sacrificed his life rather than desert his charge. The child had wandered away from a neighboring house, followed by the dog, and it is supposed that the child lay down and went to sleep on the track."

Tarred With the same Stick.

Saratoga Correspondent N. Y. Sun.

The notion prevails in this country that love matches are less common in Europe than here. This is simply to shut one's eyes to domestic faults and to keep them wide open to those of people far away. I believe I have more than sufficient reason to state that nowhere else are wealth, position and convenience so efficient as motives for matrimony as in certain classes of American society. If an exception is to be made, it is in behalf of wealthy young ladies.

A Brother's Terrible Assault.

From the Albany Journal.

Larry and Andrew Mable, brothers, living in Troy, quarrelled while fishing in Snyder's Lake. Andrew drew a dirk knife and made a stab at his brother, who to escape jumped into the lake. He sank, and when he came to the surface of the water the vengeance of his brother was again directed to the murderous weapon into Larry's back and arm several times. The wounded man got out of the reach of the knife, swam to shore, and was cared for by people there. He was subsequently taken to Troy for treatment.

The Artlessness of Childhood.

A little boy visited his uncle on his birthday and congratulated him. He then asked his uncle if he had washed himself.

"Why so?" asked the uncle, patting the little patker on the head.

"Because papa said if you did the clean thing you would give me a dollar, at least."

BY TELEGRAPH.

Drowning Near Portland.
 PORTLAND, O. Sept. 25.—About 10 A. M. to-day two young women named respectively Nellie Peal and Julia Dearwood, hired a row-boat, and getting a lad fourteen years old, started for Ross Island, two miles above the city. Reaching the boat-house they moored there, and commenced drinking beer, becoming intoxicated. On their return they managed to upset the boat and all three were thrown into the water. The lad and Miss Dearwood clung to the boat, and were rescued, but Miss Peal was drowned. The body was recovered almost immediately. The deceased was aged about twenty years. Miss Dearwood was badly strangled, and was with difficulty resuscitated. The boy says that the girls commenced rocking the boat and caused it to capsize. An inquest was held and a verdict of accidental drowning rendered.

An Editor Shot in Santa Barbara.

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 25.—Within the last few days the Evening Press has contained articles reflecting severely on Clarence Gray, lately nominated by the Republican County Convention for District Attorney. On publication of the first article Gray threatened Theodore Glancey, editor of the Press, with violence if he continued his attacks. The Press last evening returned to the attack. To-day Gray met Glancey, and, after a tirade of abuse, drew a revolver and fired. The ball passed through Glancey's right wrist and entered the abdomen, penetrating the abdominal cavity, emerging above the left hip. Gray was arrested and released in $5,000 bail. Glancey is resting quietly and hopes are entertained of his recovery.

A Railroad to Fort Worth.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 25.—A contract was entered into to-day securing the construction of the Gulf, Colorado and Salt Lake road to this place. The work begins in a few days. Assurance has been given that the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road will extend here and make a railroad centre of North Texas. Three of the largest lines in the southwest will form a junction here and a machine shop will be constructed. The city paid $75,000 to secure the road. The money was raised in three days.

St. Julien's Trot Against Time.

BEACON PARK, Mass., Sept. 25.—St. Julien's preparatory heat was trotted in 2:24½. An immense crowd was in attendance. St. Julien's first heat against time was trotted in 2:13½. St. Julien, in the second trial against time, made the mile in 2:16, and was then taken to the stable.

An Escaped Murderer Recaptured.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., Sept. 26.—The Russian, Henry Messie, who so cruelly murdered the sailor, Lawrence, recently, and succeeded in breaking jail last Tuesday, was caught yesterday by Jailer Chapman in the vicinity of Seow Bay, and again placed in confinement, after being heavily ironed.

A Disaster on the Oakland Long Wharf.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27.—About a quarter to 8 o'clock last evening, a special train from Sacramento, having on board the First Regiment of the National Guard, returning from the State Fair, when just at the bend of the filling on Oakland wharf, jumped the track, owing to a misplaced switch. The engine turned a summersault, and, with the tender, went overboard. The first car went partly over, the others remaining on the track. William Brown, the engineer, is missing, and is supposed to have gone down with the engine. The fireman was fished out of the water unhurt. A member of the band, named Coffman, was cut badly about the head, and several occupants of the first car were more or less bruised. The engineer saw that the switch was misplaced in time to apply the air-brakes and check the speed of the train, otherwise the accident would have been far more disastrous.

Hancock Loses a Vote.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—The Times says: Two men quarrelled in a St. Louis grocery last night over political matters. One wanted to bet the drinks that three-fourths of the crowd present were in favor of Garfield. Hancock's adherents consented, and taking a ballot announced that they stood eleven for Hancock and two for Garfield. The other man said the count was fraudulent, and going behind the returns made the result in favor of Garfield. Knock downs followed, and in the melee Hancock lost a vote, his supporter, Henry Pohl, falling dead with a long knife in his side. Three men were arrested.

Weaver Warns the Greenbackers Against the Democrats.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 27.—Following is a circular letter addressed to the Greenbackers of the Union by their candidate for the Presidency:

INDIANAPOLIS, (Ind.), Sept. 27, '80.
 To Greenback Labor Men throughout the United States:—I urgently request that you have struck off by the thousands, for circulation in each county, full extracts from Mr. Bayard's New York speech, in which he says the Democratic candidates for President and Vice President, and the Democratic party, are in favor of his bill to destroy the greenbacks—that they will carry out that policy. Publish the Bayard resolution, with full extracts from his speech, so that the people may know just what it is that the Democratic party and its candidates are pledged to carry out.
 J. B. WEAVER.

Commendable Lynching.

PLATTSBURG, Mo., Sept. 27.—While Mrs. Winn, wife of Benjamin Winn, a young lady of refinement and high social standing, was returning home on horseback from a visit to some friends near Grayson, she was seized by a man, who wrapped her riding habit tightly round her head, dragged her to a ravine near by, and brutally outraged her. A party of neighbors immediately started in pursuit of the fiend, overtook and hanged him on the spot. He proved to be a mulatto, a married man, and a laborer on the Winns farm.

Tottering Turkey Going to War.

GRAYESA, Sept. 27.—Yesterday the Prince of Montenegro received official information that the advance to Dulcigno would be regarded as a declaration of war. The Prince consequently has telegraphed Admiral Seymour that he is not prepared, without the aid of land troops of the Powers, to attack the Albanians, reinforced as they are by Turkish regulars and artillery. This step of the Porte must be regarded as tantamount to a declaration of war against Europe.

The Sultan Gets a Little Arbitrary.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 27.—The spirit of reckless defiance is becoming more and more intense at the Palace. For several days past the Sultan has refused to listen to any objections made by his Ministers to the policy he has adopted, and has issued an order that any officials who shall be heard expressing a contrary opinion will be dismissed and executed. Never before since the time of Mahomed the Terrible has such an order been issued.

Curious and Fatal Accident.

SANTA PAULA, Cal., Sept. 27.—On Thursday, the wife of Ben Skaggs, who lives near this place, was shot while sweeping the house, by an old rifle which was accidentally knocked down, the ball passing through the calf of one leg, and lodging in the other near the heel. She died this morning from the effects of her wound.

Mending Plymouth Rock.

PLYMOUTH, Mass., Sept. 27.—The upper portion of Plymouth rock, that has lain for 46 years in front of Pilgrim Hall, and has been separated 106 years from the original piece, was to-day reunited with the main part of the rock. The removal took place quietly, with no public demonstration, and the separated piece now lies under a canopy in its original position.

New Russo-Chinese Negotiations.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 27.—It is thought that another attempt will be made to settle the difficulties between Russia and China here, as Butzow, the Russian Envoy, and Secretary Sacho, of the Chinese legation, who were on their way to Peking, have been recalled.

Small-Pox in Stockton.

STOCKTON, Sept. 27.—Rosa Hamm, aged twenty, was yesterday reported sick with small pox. She resides at the corner of Church and Hunter streets. Sixteen cases of small-pox have been reported since the disease was first discovered.

JACKSBORO, (Tex.), Sept. 27.—This morning immense swarms of grasshoppers appeared coming from the north, at times obscuring the sun. The farms near here were completely devastated, even the cotton stalks being devoured.

A Fatal Mistake.

STOCKTON, Sept. 28.—Soon after 6 o'clock Sunday evening James Mullen was shot and instantly killed by Dennis Mullen at a cabin owned by the latter, on the line of the railroad, one mile north of Acampa, in this county. The principals were intimate friends, and not relatives. Both had been drinking to excess. The deceased man left the cabin about half an hour before the killing, leaving the prisoner asleep on his cot. The latter was awakened by the entrance of his friend, who exclaimed, "Now, you old rascal, I have come to choke you to death." Dennis replied, "I guess not," and reaching for his shot gun, which hung over his head, he fired at the intruder, killing him instantly. Mullen had been troubled considerably with tramps, and was under the impression that one was in the cabin after his money, he at times having $3,000 or $4,000 with him.

Fair's Reception on the Comstock.

VIRGINIA, Sept. 28.—Col. Fair left the train at Steamboat, and reached home at 9 o'clock this morning, escorted by several carriages containing prominent Democrats. His house was decorated with flags. Over the gate there was an arch, and in evergreens, the words "Welcome Home." When he came over the northern divide he was saluted by the blowing the whistles of the hoisting works. A large crowd gathered at the house to welcome him. He made no speeches, but in answer to a call, said he was not much of a talker, and preferred to let his actions speak for him.

Opening of the Stockton Fair.

STOCKTON, Sept. 28.—The Fair has brought a horde of bad characters to the city. Early this morning a burglar entered Seiver's Market and fired a shot at a young man who slept in the store and was awakened by the noise. Last evening a lady had her pocket picked in a dry goods store.

The Fair opened under very favorable auspices. The exhibition promises to surpass any held for years.

Application Denied.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28.—The Supreme Court has denied the application for a writ of mandamus to compel Election Commissioners to prepare tally lists for municipal officers at elections to be held this Fall.

He Will Swing, Bye-and-Bye.

SANTA BARBARA, Sept. 28.—Clarence Gray, who shot Theodore Glancey, is committed to jail, on the charge of murder, without bail.

Senator Jones Heard From.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29.—The Bulletin this afternoon will publish an interview with Senator John P. Jones, of Nevada, relative to a letter which the N. Y. World's Washington correspondent alleges to have been received by an intimate friend of Jones of Nevada, in which he announces his determination to disconnect himself from any party in conduct of the campaign, and to support Fair for Senator, as against Shannon. Senator Jones emphatically denies having written such a letter and says further he has not for many weeks written any letter containing reference to political affairs. While confessing preference for Grant as nominee of the party, yet when the Chicago Convention settled on Garfield the latter became his choice, and he regards him as being eminently fitted for the position. He holds that in no election, since the Democratic party resolved itself into the rebel army in 1861, has the success of the Republican Party been of more importance to the welfare of the country. As to the Senatorial contest, the stupidity of the utterances in the alleged letter, is evident from the fact that it is only within a few days that it has been known that Fair would be nominated as candidate, and it is not yet certain whether or not Shannon will be a candidate. He expresses confidence that Nevada will cast her electoral vote for the Republican candidate.

TROTTING AT SACRAMENTO.

Last Day of the Fair—Santa Claus Does the Mile in 2:19½—A Two-Year-Old's Fast Time.

The Bee gives the following report of Saturday's trotting at Sacramento: The first race was trotting, free for all, for a purse of $1,000. The starters were Nutwood and Santa Claus. In the pools Santa Claus sold at $40 to $15. The first heat was won by Nutwood. Time 2:22.

For the second heat Budd Doble drove Santa Claus at P. Finnigan's request. The second heat was won easily by Santa Claus, who went round all the way in an easy jog, winning the heat in 2:19½, with Nutwood five or six lengths behind, having lost badly by continuous breaking. The quarter was made in 34 seconds and the half in 1:10.

In the third heat the horses scored three times before the start. Santa Claus acted badly, but made a beautiful burst on the homestretch. Nutwood led him a neck at the stand, however, and won the heat in 2:24½.

THE TWO-YEAR-OLD TROT.

The promising two-year-old filly Sweetheart was then brought out for the purpose of speeding for the Society's gold medal and a gold cup valued at $300, conditional on her beating the fastest time ever made by a two-year-old, which is 2:31. The pacer Nimrod went round with Sweetheart. The mare went without a skip, and was driven by Billy Donahue. She made the first quarter in 0:31, the half in 1:13, and passed under the wire, having made the mile in 2:26½. When Mr. Larue announced that Sweetheart had just made the fastest time ever made by a two-year-old in the world, a deafening cheer went up from the crowd, and the ladies in the stand betokened their satisfaction by waving handkerchiefs and clapping their hands.

A Woman at the Bottom of it, of Course.

The man whose body was found hanging to a tree near Brooklyn was at the Wm. Tell House in Reno on the sixth instant. He worked a day or two in Capt. Bragg's lumber yard. He suddenly disappeared, leaving behind him a pair of blankets and some clothes. Tuesday his clothes were examined and a letter written in German found. It had no address and was signed Andrew Haag, the name on the Nevada City poll tax receipt found with the body. The following is nearly a literal translation of the letter, and indicates clearly an intention to commit suicide:

September 6, 1880.
 You that have threatened my life so long, I leave you herewith my last best wishes, thanking you at the same time for all the good conferred on me. I fulfil your wishes, and do now what the one does to please his lady, if she should hear it. I wish you all a hearty future and welfare. I cannot stay any longer. May God forgive my poor soul, and yours also, and I beg your forgiveness for offenses.
 P. S.—Are you satisfied now?
 ANDREW HAAG.

Items from the Truckee "Republican."

Laborers are in demand in Truckee. Mr. Rabel has so far recovered that he is able to set up at short intervals. Frank Wilson, accompanied by an Indian, killed two deer last Sunday. It is reported that C. F. McGlashan will not locate in Truckee—having permanently settled at Santa Cruz. R. P. Ferguson, of the Pacific Shingle Co., has concluded a contract with the Eureka & California Lumber Co. of Eureka, to supply them with a million and a half feet of square timber for the Eureka mines, to be supplied next season.

Quail are very numerous in this vicinity. Saturday afternoon one of our nimrods killed thirteen inside of an hour. Grouse, however, are to be found high up in the mountains, and are said to be very wild.

A curious feature has been noticed about white fish, in the vicinity of Donner Lake. They are frequently caught within half a mile of the lake, but none have been either caught or seen in the lake.

Big Mine Sold.

O. P. Keyes received a telegram from New York Wednesday that the eastern parties had accepted his proposition on the Alexander mine at Grantsville. The price is six or seven millions of dollars. The parties who buy are an English syndicate. Keyes says he thinks it is the biggest mine in the world.

A GOOD LISTENER.

D. Banks McKenzie Discourses to a Reno Girl on the Beauties of Washoe Valley and Steamboat.

The Enterprise says: They tell a good joke on Dr. Banks McKenzie, the well known temperance lecturer, in connection with the visit to this State of President Hayes and party. Dr. McKenzie left Reno on the train with the Presidential party, and finding himself seated near a young lady, concluded that she was one of the party, and probably Miss Sherman. In passing up through Truckee meadows, Steamboat valley and Washoe valley the Doctor pointed out and discoursed upon all objects of interest, as Steamboat springs, the wood-flumes and the like. In Washoe valley the Bowers mansion was pointed out and a detailed history of the former owners given. All this was attentively listened to and finally, as the train was running along up through Eagle valley, the Doctor asked the young lady some question about the East. "The East," said the young lady—"I am not from the East. I reside in Reno." The young lady was Miss Gerty Hatch of Reno, who has lived in that town nearly all her life, and who has been perfectly familiar from childhood with all the scenes and subjects so eloquently expounded upon by the Doctor. Upon learning that he had been carrying bushels and bushels—whole shiploads—of coals to Newcastle, the Doctor's jaw fell, and during the remainder of the trip he sadly and silently retraced his way along the thread of his late discourse, unpleasantly conscious that in some places he had thrown in a little more romance than was likely to be appreciated in the home market.

Appointments by the M. E. Conference.

The Methodist Episcopal Conference just closed in Virginia made the following ministerial appointments:

Central District—J. D. Hammond, P. E.—Virginia City, W. C. Gray, Gold Hill, to be supplied; Carson, E. R. Willis; Carson Valley, to be supplied; Winnemucca, J. B. Willis; Eureka, J. T. Ladd; Ruby Hill, R. A. Ricker; Austin, C. W. Crall; Elko, George Jennings; Battle Mountain, to be supplied; Tuscarora, to be supplied.

Northern District—W. Carver, P. E.—Reno, C. McKelvey; Truckee, T. S. Uren; Sierra Valley, O. Barstow; Quincy, N. G. Luke; Indian Valley, L. Ewing; Susanville, to be supplied; Surprise Valley, J. W. Pendleton; Fall River, M. W. Pratt.

Southern District—G. B. Hinkle, P. E.—Bodie, F. M. Warrington; Bridgeport, G. B. Hinkle; Colville, W. Nims; Bishop Creek, F. M. Willis.

There are several other places left to be supplied by the Presiding Elders.

Around the World.

A fame that is world wide and acquired in the space of a few years, must have true merit for its support. Dr. Pierce's Family Medicines have gained such fame and the foreign orders for his Golden Medical Discovery—the greatest blood purifier of the age, for his Pleasant Purgative Pills (little sugar coated pills), his Favorite Prescription—woman's best friend—and other remedies became so great, that a branch of the World's Dispensary has been established in London, England, for their manufacture. From this depot they are shipped to every part of Europe, and to the East Indies, China, Japan, and other countries. Their sale in both North and South America is perfectly enormous and increasing yearly. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Proprietors, Buffalo, New York, and Great Russell Street Buildings, London, Eng.

DR. R. V. PIERCE:
 Dear Sir:—I take pleasure in writing my testimony with others in regard to your valuable medicine. For a long time I have suffered from disease of the lungs and until I used your Discovery found nothing that did me any good. Thanks to you, I am relieved and recommend it to all.
 Yours truly, MARY KENNEL.

Bogus Certificates.

It is no vile drugged stuff, pretending to be made of wonderful foreign roots, bark, etc., and puffed up by long bogus certificates of pretended miraculous cures, but a simple, pure, effective medicine, made of well-known valuable remedies, that furnishes its own certificates by its cures. We refer to Hop Bitters, the purest and best of medicines. See another column.—Republican.

JAIL-BREAKING.

The Escape of Barney Fitzgerald and Frank Graham from the Jail Last Night—Their Speedy Capture at Mayberry's by Deputy Sheriff Chamberlain—How the Men Got Out—What Fitzgerald Says—Alleged Aid From Without.

The news spread Sunday evening like wildfire that Barney Fitzgerald had broken jail and escaped. His exit was made through a window of the jail, where an iron bar had been sawed through to facilitate his departure. His escape was discovered in a few minutes after he got away and the Sheriff and other officers started off at once, to scour the country in search of him. Telegrams were sent in all directions. Frank Graham, sent up for ninety days from Wadsworth on conviction of theft, fled with Fitzgerald. Their flight was discovered at half-past six o'clock. In less than two hours afterwards Deputy Sheriff Isaac Chamberlain had captured both the jail-breakers near Mayberry's, and at 10 o'clock they were securely locked up in the county jail.

Barney Fitzgerald was indicted for the murder of Tom Laswell, committed about eight months ago. His trial was set for the thirteenth of the present month but had been continued till Oct. 18. Ever since his incarceration the prisoner had, in common with the other inmates, been allowed the scant freedom of the jail during the day, and had not been ironed. About 8 o'clock every evening they are all locked up in their respective cells. Fitzgerald had behaved well, and been accordingly well treated by the jailer.

The escape could not have been affected without the collusion of some of the prisoners who did not avail themselves of the opportunity for flight. The jail is simply a large room in the southwest corner of the court house, on the ground floor. The cells are built together in the centre of the room, with a wide walk all round, between them and the walls. The walls of the room are sheathed with iron plate. The windows are each secured with seven upright bars of inch-and-a-quarter round iron, with a space of three inches between each. The lower portion of the windows, as high as the upper sash, is covered by the same iron plating that protects the walls.

Fitzgerald and Graham got out through the west window on the south side. One of the upright iron bars was cut through and bent aside, leaving a space seven and a half inches wide, through which they crawled. The bar could have been sawed by any one standing on the edge of the window within. It is hard to reach from without the jail. The bar was cleanly and evenly cut—half through from one side and half from the other—as a woodman saws a tree. The opening made was about twelve feet from the ground, but two ledges on the outside of the building rendered the descent an easy thing. Once in the yard, there was nothing but a wooden bar to jump over before the fugitives were beyond the prison precincts.

At 6:35 Sunday evening Barney Fitzgerald was seen in the jail by Dute Gray, the jailer. Five minutes later Gray went to the door and called to him but received no answer. Gray at once jumped to the conclusion that the man had broken out, and rushing around the building saw that a bar had been severed and bent. He immediately gave the alarm and the search began. Sheriff Walker mounted his horse and galloped off on the Virginia road, and Dute Gray went towards Glendale, also mounted. There was "hell to pay and no pic-a-hot," to use the graphic expression sometimes employed in emergencies. Officer Chamberlain was fortunate enough to get on the right road. He galloped up to Mayberry's, taking the road north of the river. He stationed a big man with a long pistol at the bridge, with instructions to let no one pass without orders. Leaving brave Horatio on guard, Chamberlain went down the road from Mayberry's on the south side of the river. He had gone some distance when he saw two men making for a fence on the road-side. He drew his pistol and presenting it at Graham, a large, powerful man, he said:

"I'll kill the first man that moves." As neither of the men showed any disposition to move, Chamberlain walked up to Barney, slipped on his "nippers," and ordered Graham to lead the way to Mayberry's. Graham obeyed without a word, and Chamberlain followed with Fitzgerald.

On the way down from Mayberry's, Barney told Chamberlain that the window bar had been cut by parties from the outside of the jail, who had promised to be on hand at the time of the escape and to help and further assist the fugitives. Fitzgerald said the parties failed to appear as agreed, and once out of the jail he and Graham had to make the best of it. They kept in the fields till they reached Andrews' ranch on Indian Flat, about two miles from town. There they took to the road and kept it until they encountered Chamberlain. Had they been armed they would probably have made resistance, as Fitzgerald's case is desperate. Chamberlain deserves great credit for the energy and pluck he exhibited, and the capture he made is pronounced a very neat thing by the other officers.

Fitzgerald was in a very ugly mood when returned to his cell that night. He cursed and raved at his bad luck, abusing everybody, especially Gray, the jailer. The other captive conducted himself quietly. It is probable that Fitzgerald's offense in breaking jail will be made the grounds for another motion for a change of venue, when his case comes up on Oct. 18th. The argument would be that the jail-breaking had revived the matter of the homicide of Laswell in everybody's mind, creating fresh prejudice against the prisoner.

The speedy capture of Fitzgerald is highly creditable to the local authorities. A few minutes after the discovery of the escape Sheriff Walker had both the bridges over the river guarded, had sent out officers on all the principal roads, and taken all other possible measures to secure the arrest of the jail-breakers. He rode a long way himself on the Virginia road and did not get back till midnight. Mr. Walker does not credit Fitzgerald's statement that the bar was cut from without. He thinks the bar could have been sawn into in about two hours, and that the job was done by Graham. He is of the opinion that Barney could not have expected much aid outside, because he took with him from the jail a quantity of scraps of stale bread which he had saved for the occasion.

Graham had been a "trusty" in the jail, and one day last week he stole a pistol from a drawer in the Sheriff's desk. Mr. Gray soon discovered the theft and took the pistol away from him.

Cattle at the Grounds.

The display of stock at the grounds is not large, but it is very fine. B. F. Leete has a number of shorthorn Durhams. The first is Duke of Washoe, ten months old; weight 770 pounds. Red Mary is a three-year-old weighing 1795 pounds. Amelia fifth is another three-year-old of 1550 pounds weight. She gives four gallons of milk a day. In the stall next to her is her six-months-old calf Amelia weighing 500 pounds. Cherry is a yearling three-quarters thoroughbred weighing 975 pounds.

J. O. Sessions has a graded two-year-old with a calf beside her, and a graded four-year-old there. T. G. Herrman has a beautiful red thoroughbred bull. C. S. Varian's family cow is entered with her calf. She is a thoroughbred Jersey. He also names a handsome lot of pigs, and some ducks, geese, turkeys and chickens. A number of sheep were driven in today, and a large number of stalls will be filled up to-morrow and next day.

A Case of Suspended Animation.

Robert Wiley, a sheep herder, Sunday found a man hanging to a tree near the road to Brooklyn, about six miles from town. The body was suspended by a baling rope and the hands were free. It was dressed in light colored trousers and a checked shirt. Wiley did not see the face or disturb the body but came to town and reported what he had seen. Mr. Neale and Watchman Ross went out Monday morning to investigate. They returned that afternoon, having buried the body. It was a plain case of suicide and the body had been hanging for at least two weeks. In a pocket was a poll tax receipt made out in the name of A. Haag, of Nevada City.

Quinn's Sentence.

J. J. Quinn, found guilty of an assault upon S. Beemer, was sentenced Monday in the District Court to pay a fine of $500 and the costs of the suit, amounting to $300 50. Counsel for the prisoner excepted to the addition of the costs to the fine. The point will be decided by the Supreme Court.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge King said the prisoner was very fortunate in escaping conviction for a much graver offense than that of which he had been found guilty. Out of consideration for the prisoner's family and his business he did not add any term of imprisonment to the fine.

A Good Place to Trade.

John Sunderland is expecting a big invoice of goods. Some of them are coming by express. His business during the Fair is always large. A great many people from away off in Northern California and some from the other side wait for months to buy their shoes of him when they come to the Fair, thus killing two birds with one stone. They say they can do better with him than any one in Chico, Red Bluff or any town in their own country.

Not a Bad Second Crop.

There are some fine second crops of alfalfa in the valley. Andrews, on Indian Flat, below Mayberry's, has a patch of clover ready for the mower. It has grown thick and tall, and is uninjured by grasshoppers. Mayberry and Frey are gathering in a good second crop. Many other ranchers in the valley are doing as well.

THE PAVILION.

The Exhibits in the Agricultural Department—Grain and Milling—High Prices and a Good Market for Wheat and Barley—Fall Sowing—Minor Objects of Interest.

The first exhibit seen on entering the Pavilion is, by a happy coincidence, the most important in the building. It is a stack of bags containing samples of the various products of the Lake Mills of Reno, the largest manufacturing establishment in Nevada, doing a business of $30,000 per month. The exhibit comprises flour, three grades; corn meal, oat meal, graham meal, rye flour and cracked wheat, each in three sizes; also hominy and pearl barley, in 10 and 25 pound sacks. These samples are all of excellent quality, and Mr. Beck gives away a small sack of the wheat flour to all who apply. The staple products of the Mills are wheat flour and ground barley; the other samples are exhibited to show the varied capabilities of the establishment.

WHEAT AND BARLEY

samples are shown in sacks with the Lake Mills display. There are some magnificent heads of Champlain (Pringle's new hybrid) wheat shown, eight inches long, exceeding by an inch and a half the length shown in a circular advertising the variety. George Alt paid $1 a pound for some of the seed, and from two acres on his ranch at Glendale he raised 162 bushels, an enormous yield. There are also exhibited fine samples of White Club wheat, raised by Henry Whistler and Peter Dalton, and D. Hank of Honey Lake shows some fine Great Eastern wheat. A sample of Michigan White barley grown by G. H. Douglas on Lake's ranch is pronounced superior for brewing purposes to any raised in California. The same exhibitor shows an excellent sample of Norway oats.

GRAIN GROWING

in Washoe county is becoming an important branch of agriculture. The acreage in grain this year is three times as great as it was last year. As yet, however, the local product is a mere drop in the bucket of the local demand. The Lake Mills grind each month about 600 tons of barley, 100 tons of wheat and 20 tons of corn. Of every 600 tons of barley ground the Mills are obliged to import 590 from California, and the local product of wheat supplies the Mills only three months in the year. It must always be profitable for farmers in this section, Mr. Beck says, to grow sufficient grain to satisfy the local demand. The freight from Sacramento to Reno is $1 06 per 100 pounds. This cost of freight is always in favor of the local grower. Barley, which is now sold in Sacramento at about 80 cents, is worth $1 90 here. The Mills here are paying $2 20 for wheat, which is quoted at about $1 25 in California. There is no reason why Washoe county should not raise sufficient grain to supply the whole of Nevada.

GOOD LAND FOR GRAIN

is found all through this State. The bench lands, the first elevations above the flats, are usually the best for wheat. In this valley fine crops of grain have been raised at Glendale, right on the flat. Mr. Beck puts the average yield of wheat in Glendale at from 40 to 80 bushels; of barley over 100 bushels. This year the average product of the grain area of the State, may be set down as between 25 and 30 bushels of wheat to the acre, and of barley, from 40 to 60. Barley is the only grain fed by teamsters. They consider it superior to oats as feed for horses doing hard work.

WHEN TO SOW.

Mr Beck desires to have the advantages of fall sowing urged upon the attention of the farmers. He says that it will be found a much better plan than to sow in the spring. The grain should be sown early in the fall, say Oct. 1, in order to allow it to get a good start before the coming of the frost. Fall sowing has been tried by Geo. W. Andrews, on Indian flat. He was much pleased with the results. He made a comparative test of the two systems of sowing, and found the advantage to be much in favor of the grain sowed in the fall. He believes that fall sowed grain requires very little irrigation in the summer, and in some localities would need none.

THE OTHER AGRICULTURAL EXHIBITS are not numerous. Three bales of hay represent the great staple crop of Washoe valley. Four cheese and a few samples of butter represent the dairy interest. One sack of onions, and two of potatoes stand for the root crop. There are the usual large pumpkins and squashes, watermelons and musk melons. Some fine tomatoes were exhibited.

The reporter's attention was especially directed to some green corn of the Mammoth Evergreen variety, stripped for inspection. It is said to enjoy an immunity from the attacks of worms, and one ear is big enough to satisfy the appetite of any ordinary man.

Mr. Wright, the venerable American Agriculturist, whose wagon loaded with watermelons is a familiar object in the streets of Reno, exhibits some splendid green tobacco, grown on his ranch. His father used to grow his own tobacco in York State, and it occurred to Mr. Wright this spring to plant some tobacco seed, and see how it would take to Nevada soil. The plants grew and flourished, and the specimens on exhibition are pronounced excellent. Mr. Wright says that tobacco will grow here just as well as in any place he knows of.

Near the tobacco plants, some tall corn stalks, ten feet high, lean their heads against the wall. It is of the Peruvian variety, and was raised by Guy Manning.

There is little fruit on exhibition, but some of it is superior. The crop has never been better than it is this year. There are apples, mulberries, plums, pears, crab apples, etc. If the names of the varieties exhibited were affixed, the display would be of more use. Preserves of every description are shown, and make a tempting exhibit.

Some eggs laid by a "Cochin Poland" fowl imported from Wales, and owned by Mrs. C. H. Frick, are remarkable for their large size. One of them measures 6 1/4 inches in its smallest circumference.

The supposition is that the two packages that are tied up in napkins in the showcase are loaves of bread. Beside them is a plate of jelly cake, uncovered, inviting observation, and looking very toothsome.

Reluctantly turning away from the jelly cake, the sole exhibit of its kind, the visitor will linger for a while before the display of honey in the comb, shown by J. O. Sessions, and after looking at the specimens of comb foundation and other bee-keeper's supplies, will have about "done" the exhibits at present displayed in the Agricultural department, and be hungry enough for a dinner at the Arcade or the Metropolitan.

A Shady, Cool Retreat.

A ride up Hunter's creek canyon, just back of Mayberry's, is a delightful experience at this season. A narrow trail winds up through a tangle of bushes and shrubbery, crossing and recrossing a rushing stream which flows from the banks of eternal snow above. There are hundreds of trees loaded with choke cherries, the bright scarlet or the jet black of the fruit contrasting beautifully with the dark green foliage. Occasional open spaces afford glimpses of a grand view of the canyon, flanked by frowning cliffs, and losing itself in the heart of the lofty mountains. The effects of light and shade are intense. From the heat of a summer day one can ride into the canyon and find always the cool fresh air coming down from the heights above. The air in the canyon is kept cool by the ice-cold water of the rushing stream.

Boy Drowned in the Truckee.

Johnny Battenfeld, a five-year-old boy, disappeared from Truckee Sept. 4, and was supposed to have fallen into the river. The Republican says: News reached Truckee last Monday at half past five p. m., that a boy was seen floating in the river near Boca. One of the clerks in Burkhalter's store telephoned to the Clinton saw mills, two miles from where he was seen, "that a boy was seen floating in the river at Boca, and to keep a sharp lookout for him." Sure enough, not long after the news was sent, Johnny was hauled out of the waters that had hid him from view for twenty-three days. His remains came up on the overland Monday night, and yesterday morning were forwarded to Rocklin for interment.

George Tromlitz in the Tolls.

The Elko Independent has the following relative to the "world-renowned chiropodist," who bilked all who trusted him here a year ago: "Tromlitz, the fascinating 'corn doctor,' who worked this place to advantage some months ago, winding up his exploits by carrying off the boxum chambermaid of the Depot Hotel, is at last under lock and key. After leaving Elko he figured conspicuously in the local history of Ogden and Salt Lake City until those places became too warm for him. Deserting the chambermaid at Green river, Tromlitz hurried to the east, but when he reached Chicago he was nabbed by the police, who were familiar with his record, and to-day the smooth and glib man of confidence repines in the jail of the great city by the lakes."

The 2:26 Trot Off.

The trot for horses in the 2:26 class, on the programme for Thursday, is not filled, Ashley having been withdrawn and Brushy John barred. A. K. Lamb last Monday received a telegram, giving a positive assurance that Ashley would not appear here. Some inducement will probably be offered for Maggie C. to trot against time, if no horse can be got to make a match in her class.

ANOTHER SCHOOL NEEDED.

The Southside People Present to the Trustees of Reno School District a Petition for a Primary School.

To the Hon. Board of Trustees of Reno School District:

We, the undersigned residents of that portion of Reno School District lying south of the Truckee river hereby demand the immediate construction of a primary school building on the south side of the river, in compliance with the law, which reads as follows: "And the said Board of trustees are further authorized to purchase a lot or lots on the south side of the river in the said town of Reno and build and complete thereon one school building suitable for a primary school—provided such lot or lots and building shall be in a convenient locality and shall approximate in cost the sum of three thousand dollars, but shall not exceed that sum. The Board of Trustees of said Reno school district shall immediately proceed to issue the bonds herein provided for and when disposed of shall proceed with due diligence and purchase the lots and erect the building and complete the same in accordance with the provisions of the act."

A primary school on the south side of the river has been needed for a long time. Although less densely populated the larger portion of Reno School District lies on the south side of the river. At present small children have to go a long way to attend school, all of them having to cross the river, and many of them two railroad tracks to reach the school house, which is situated on the extreme north verge of the population of the district. The law provides for this school building. The small children badly need it. Nearly all the taxpayers and heads of families in that portion of the district have most emphatically expressed their desire to have it, and there seems to be no good reason why they should not have it. In all the towns in this State primary schools are located in places convenient for small children. The only wonder is that the south side people have not made this demand before.

A Superior Entertainment.

The entertainment in the theater Wednesday and Thursday evenings will be interesting. The stereopticon will display all the beauties of Niagara, with no charge for cab fare, and much of the grandest and most beautiful scenery of the Old World. There will also be exhibited views of the historic castles and gardens of Europe. The whole will be illuminated by the refulgent rays of the calcium, or lime light. The charms of a trip around the world can be enjoyed in one evening at the trifling cost of four bits.

The J. & K. Mill.

The new mill for the J. & K. mine came up this week from San Francisco, and was freighted out by Dixon to-day. It is of the new Huntington oscillating pattern, with two batteries, about equal in working capacity to an ordinary ten-stamp mill. The mill will probably be in operation in the course of a week or ten days. A Huntington ore-feeder came up with the mill.

The Ladies' Tournament.

The Ladies' Tournament on the programme for Friday is one of the attractions of the Fair. There will be at least six competitors, and some fine riding may be expected. John Gunther has offered a special premium of a $15-dollar bridle and a fine riding whip.

JOTTINGS.

—The gamblers are not picking up much at this Fair.

—Mrs. Couch has some nice rooms to let, and good board.

—Pierce Evans has been commissioned a notary public.

—Sweeney & Allen have the gaming privilege at the Fair grounds.

—The population of Prosser Creek is rapidly increasing.

—Round trip tickets to the Fair grounds are sold in Virginia at $2 50.

—There will be no meeting of the Gardfield and Arthur Club this week.

—Six hundred voters have registered in this precinct. Registration closes Oct. 20.

—Sweeney & Allen paid $450 for the gaming privilege at the Fair grounds.

—Remember that there will be dancing in Kimball's hall on Thursday and Saturday evenings.

—Wipe off your chin with one of those fine silk handkerchiefs sold at the White House.

—The exhibition of dissolving views in the theatre this evening will be very interesting. See advertisement.

—That ball in the Theatre on Friday evening will be largely attended. Langer's band will furnish the music.

—Hay bales at work on Frey's place say that they bale from 100 to 108 bales a day, using oxen.

—During the week the banks will close at one o'clock, and be open from five to six in the afternoon.

—M. Nathan's goods are attracting a great deal of attention. Those who drop in there almost invariably find exactly the thing they want.

—Ladies from a distance express delight and surprise to find such a fine stock of goods as Sol. Levy has provided for them to make selections from.

—Langley's music has been secured for the grand ball at the theatre on Friday evening so that the dancers may be sure of having a fine time.

—Charles Merrill is happy. He has secured Al. Young, his favorite cook. Mr. Young is said to be one of the finest cooks on the coast.

—There will be dancing in Kimball's hall on Thursday and Saturday evenings of this week, under the direction of Mrs. Alt. Good music will be provided.

—Mrs. A. H. Manning sends a charming basket of flowers to the GAZETTE office. They are from her own garden.

—W. Googel, with his usual liberality, offers a prize of a set of jewelry for the best embroidery and needle work exhibited at the Fair.

—H. L. W. Knox has fitted out the restaurant at the track in nice shape. Any one who drops in there is certain of a nice meal with a good cup of coffee, nice bread, butter and meats.

—The Reform Club entertainment on Saturday evening was rather better than usual, although no address was delivered. The hall was filled early in the evening, and the dance was well attended. The music was much better than on the previous occasion.

—Barney Fitzgerald wore a suit of old-fashioned clothes last night, by which he could easily have been detected. He might have walked the streets of New York or San Francisco in clothes of the latest style and cut had he purchased a new outfit from the White House.

—James Sullivan advertises hay for sale at $9 a ton, with nice dry corals, good cribs, etc., to feed at. He uses well water instead of ditch water for drinking purposes. So that there can be no scarcity or danger of injury, as the well water is warmer and does stock no harm.

—The yawning rent which suddenly appeared in the trousers of a young man at the race track yesterday excited much amusement. The unfortunate wearer of the shoddy garment would have been spared that mortification had his clothes been purchased at the White House.

—A large number of canary birds may be found at Blakeley's store for this week. They were imported from Germany by Capt. Mullet of San Francisco. He is the man who ships sea lions to the east and Europe. He has his own vessel and does most of the lassoing with his own hands. He has shipped 266 lions over the overland road.

—The I X L is loading up with carpets, new trunks, valises, dry goods, fancy goods and all manner of gentlemen's furnishing goods. The fun in the street from drays unloading boxes and packages continues, and where everything is going to be put is a mystery to outsiders. Such a stream of customers continues to pour in, however, that the blockade cannot last long.

A Wrong Report.

"A New York dramatic paper states, on very good authority, that Nina Varian died on her voyage to Europe, a couple of weeks ago, and that her remains were consigned to the ocean."

The above report is contradicted by C. S. Varian, brother of the deceased. Miss Varian's remains are coming from England for burial in Greenwood cemetery, New York.

A Bold Robber in Placer County.

AUBURN, Cal., Sept. 22.—The Forest Hill stage down this morning was stopped by a man about six miles from here. He took the driver's box, $20 from a Chinaman and about $20 from the other passengers. Another Chinaman had about $200, but denied having coin, and as the robber did not search him he escaped loss. Congressman Page and another man going to Forest Hill in a buggy were stopped by the same man, who took a watch and $300 from Mr. Page. He made all the passengers get out of the stage, and attempted to blow the iron treasury box open, exploding two charges on it, but did not damage it.

F. at Time.

SHREVEPORT, (L. I.) Sept. 22. At the extra meeting of the Coney Island Jockey Club yesterday the first race, five furlongs, was won by By-the-Way, Ripple second and Emily F. third. Time 1:02 1/2, equalling Bannister's time, the same distance, the fastest on record. The second race was a selling race, three-quarters of a mile, Ada I. Merrimac 2, Mabel 3. Time 1:15 1/2. The third race, one mile, was won easily by Bourdman, Warfield (the favorite) second, Susquehanna third. Time 1:40 1/2, the fastest time on record for a mile race, except of Ten Boreck again at time.

Murdered and Buried.

SIERRA CITY, Sept. 22. Alfred Smith of this place, the reporter for the Associated Press, and an old resident of this county, was buried to death in his house some time during the night. His remains were found this morning among the ruins, with his skull seeming to have been crushed. Suspicion leads to the belief that a foul murder was done by some person, as indications show that there was a struggle in the room. A pistol lay by his right side.

Disturbances in China.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Serious disturbances are reported in Canton, China. Europeans have been threatened and are in a state of alarm. The Catholic Mission has been attacked and the military have been called out. Several rioters were killed and wounded.

Indians Appointing an Agent.

DENISON, Texas, Sept. 23.—The Cheyenne Indians in Indian Territory are manifesting great discontent and are becoming disorderly. A few days ago a band of about 300, with war paint on and well mounted, visited the agency near Fort Reno and were very demonstrative and threatening and slapped the agent in the face. Another party is reported to have gone through the commissary store at Wichita Agency recently. The cause of the trouble is said to be insufficiency of food.

Indiana Still on October State.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 23. The Supreme Court today overruled the petition for a rehearing in the case involving the validity of the constitutional amendments, the vote standing the same as it did in the original case, Judges Noble and Scott in favor of a rehearing, and Judges Biddle, Warren and Hewitt against it.

Census Frauds in the South.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. Two of the special agents sent to South Carolina to investigate the alleged census frauds have returned and are now preparing their report to General Walker. The nature of their report it is impossible to learn, as General Walker forbids any intimation of it to be given out until completed and submitted to the Secretary of the Interior. It is generally believed, however, that these agents have discovered frauds of a very serious character.

Small-Pox in Canada.

OTTAWA, Sept. 23. A gentleman just returned from the Desert says fully 120 deaths have occurred from the small-pox. In one camp of sixteen persons all but one boy died. The Tette Bontes Indians are about extinct.

Chinese Fall in Massachusetts.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. The Daily News says: The experiment of running the Sampson Manufacturing Company's shoe shop at North Adams, Mass., with Chinese labor has proved a failure, and the last Celestial has departed for a more congenial field of labor.

Anxiety in Indiana.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 23.—The Republicans and Democrats in Indiana are feeling anxious about the Greenback vote, which is expected to reach forty thousand.

The "Examiner" to be Sold.

SAN FRANCISCO, September 24. It is stated, on reliable authority, that all arrangements, except the payment of the money, have been made for the purchase of the Evening Examiner and its conversion into a morning paper—Democrat, of course. It is understood that Haggin & Tevis furnished the means, and that either ex Mayor Bryant or N. F. Boggett, Deputy City and County Attorney, will have the management.

A Texas Bulling an A.K.

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 24.—The immense amount of rain that has fallen in this section recently has frightened the people, among them a wealthy Pole named Stanislaus Redisky, who is building an ark. Redisky says God appeared to him and told him to build the ark, that the world would shortly be deluged again. The ark will cost several thousand dollars. The town of Trio is inundated. The Rio river rises sixty-two feet, doing great damage to property and business. The river is three miles wide. One woman was drowned.

A $100,000 Horse.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The Times says: Aforesaid S. had trotted with S. Julien and the two had tied on their famous time, he is said to have been valuable for $100,000. So was her competitor, and several offers at the figure were made for the horse when he afterwards trotted a mile alone in 2:11 1/2. Now the mare has done a mile in 2:10 1/2, it is said that several parties are willing to give $100,000 for her, considering that her making the fastest time on record is fully worthy an advance of 100 per cent.

Solid Once Before.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. An Inter-Ocean special from New York says: The Tribune prints the following dispatch from Batavia, O.: Congressman J. S. Blackburn, of Kentucky, said in his speech here on the evening of the 20th inst.: "Let the Radicals cease their brawling about the Solid South. She is solid, thank God. She was solid for Jeff Davis in 1860, and she will be solid for Hancock in 1880." These words were pencilled down at the moment, and are given with accuracy. Some, but not all, of our Democrats applauded.

A Bank Clerk Locked Up.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24.—It is reported that one of the clerks in the Nevada Bank has been locked up in the city prison since the 7th inst. pending an investigation of certain irregularities alleged to have been practiced by him. The allegation is made that the individual in question is a defaulter in several thousand dollars.

No News of the "Jeanette."

Bark "Legal Tender" has arrived from the Arctic regions. She brings no news of the Jeanette or the missing whalers. Her crew reiterate the previous reports of the severity of the season in the north and the probability of the loss of the whalers.

Maternal Vengeance.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 24. Mrs. Gardner severely horsewhipped a cowardly brute named Lindsey at No. 759 Mission street. Lindsey is an ex-convict, 50 years of age, and had enticed a little girl of Mrs. Gardner, into his shop.

The Official Vermont Returns.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, Sept. 24. The official returns of the Vermont election give a total of 70,709—Farnham, 47,894; Phelps, 21,228; Heath, 1,578; scattering, 14. Farnham's majority, 25,079.

The California State Fair.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 24. The award of premiums for thoroughbred cattle were made this morning. Col. Younger, of Santa Clara, got the lion's share. To-morrow Santa Claus will trot against time.

Racing at Sacramento.

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 25. Nutwood won the first heat in 2:32. Santa Claus broke badly several times, barely saving his distance.

AROUND THE STATE.

Republican County Convention in Storey to-day.

A new supply of whisky has been received at Elko.

The Leopard Co.'s mill, buildings, etc., at Tuscarora, have been sold for delinquent taxes.

The Messenger says: Dow Huntman, of the Capital Hotel, Battle Mountain, is having his gas machine put under ground, and as soon as the work is completed the house will be lit with gas.

Kinney & Schmidt, of the Desert Salt Co., are putting up a salt mill at Battle Mountain. It will grind fifteen tons a day. The salt is gathered at White Plains.

At Winnemucca yesterday the evidence for the prosecution in the St. Clair case had not closed at noon.

Austin has a street railroad nearly completed from the terminus of the Nevada Central to the town. A dummy engine will be used.

William Moore, who resides at the sink of the Humboldt, informs the Silver State that the Pintos are making tons of sugar this year, in that vicinity. The cane seems to contain more saccharine matter than usual, and the Indians are surprised with sweets.

The Belmont Courier says: The terribly dilapidated condition for fully a year past of the court house steps is at last to be remedied.

In pulling forth a handkerchief to flirt with a girl at a concert, a Bodie young man dragged out a flask of whiskey which fell to the floor. This spoiled the effect.

His Narrow Escape from Death in a Fire.

From the "Terra Haute Express."

Just after the heavy rain had ceased falling on Thursday and the gutters along the streets were overflowing, a boy by the name of Wm. Huff, about twelve years of age, was wading in the water on W. Chesnut street. Walking down the gutter, the current became so swift that he was carried down through the arch basin at the corner of S. Second and Chesnut street and into the sewer beneath. Two or three persons saw him go down, and no one expected that he would ever be seen alive again. Herdin Huff, the father of the boy, hearing of the accident, took a line for the river, a quarter of a mile distant. Although he made rapid time, upon striving there he found his boy walking up the bank. The youth says that when he fell into the sewer he tried to stand still until help could arrive, but the current was too powerful, and he was swept swiftly down the long, dark and narrow cavern, sometimes with his head above and sometimes beneath the water. The inky darkness was now and then relieved by a sudden ray of light coming down through catch basins, but he shot past them like the winds into utter darkness, amid the incessant roar of the constantly increasing volume of water. He says that he was positive that if he could keep his head above water long enough he would finally strike the Wabash, and could run his chances of getting to shore. In all of these suppositions he was correct.

WHY THE SOUTH IS SOLID FOR HANCOCK.

"Consider what Lee and Jackson would do were they alive. THESE ARE THE SAME PRINCIPLES FOR WHICH THEY FOUGHT FOR FOUR YEARS. Remember the men who poured forth their life blood on Virginia's soil, and do not abandon them now. Remember that upon your vote depends the success of the Democratic ticket."—[Wade Hampton, at the meeting in the interest of Democratic harmony in Virginia, at Staunton, July 26, 1880.]

"Pause before you cast your vote. Think how Lee would have voted. Think what Jackson would have done before he would have cast a vote calculated to divide his beloved Virginia. I ask you to remember those who have died on your soil, AND TO REMEMBER THAT THE PRINCIPLES THEY DIED FOR ARE AGAIN ON TRIAL TO-DAY."—[What Wade Hampton said, as reported in the Staunton Vindicator, of July 30, 1880, the only Democratic paper in Staunton that published the substance of this address.]

"General Hampton declared that the Democratic party, under Hancock's lead, was fighting for the same principles that Lee and Jackson fought for, and for which the Southern soldiers died. There was no qualification in the terms used. His appeal was for harmony in the Democratic party in Virginia, and to make it effective he brought up the war remembrance to touch the feelings of the audience."—[From the Staunton Valley Virginian, the paper from which the first quotation above is taken.]

[From four prominent Democrats of Staunton, who sat on the platform while Hampton spoke.]

We, the undersigned, heard the speech of General Wade Hampton, delivered in Staunton, on the 26th of July. We have also read the report thereof published in The Valley Virginian on the 29th of July, and hereby certify that that report was substantially correct.

SENTIMENTS ADAPTED TO HIS AUDIENCE.

Charles Town, S. C., Correspondence of the New York Sun.

"Now, however, when they (the Democrats) hear of him (Hampton) at Staunton identifying the issues of the present campaign with those of the Lost Cause, they fear that he was awkward in expressing sentiments different from his primitive politics, but adapted, as he conceived, to the immediate audience he was addressing."

LOYALTY THE MAIN ISSUE.

From the New York Sun (Dem.) Sept. 9, '80.

If the Democratic party is defeated in the Presidential election, it will be because the belief prevails that it is less a Union party than the Republican. The Democratic orators will do wisely to bear in mind that the result hinges on this, and that the issue should be boldly met. It cannot be dodged.

LET THEM REFLECT.

It is the general opinion that Col. Fair's candidacy will bring two sacks into the campaign instead of one. We are of the opinion, and we hope we are correct, that instead of opening an additional sack, it will have the opposite effect and close Mr. Sharon's. The latter must see that he cannot afford to put any more money into the contest than Fair, and we hope they both will see the matter in its true light. It will be disgraceful to have two millionaires come here and go to buying their way into the Senate of the United States, to say nothing of the fact that that body may send a committee out to see how the election was carried on. Let the two candidates contribute fairly to the legitimate campaign funds of their respective parties and then take their chances before the people.

Dresses are to fit tighter than ever next winter, so that the masculine imagination will have little to do during the cold weather. The feminine hair is to be made up plain and tight to the head, or frizzled on the forehead and surmounted by a wreath of roses on state occasions.—S. F. Alta.

A COWARDLY MURDER.

The shooting of Theodore Glancey by Clarence Gray at Santa Barbara was a cowardly assassination. Gray had been nominated by the Republican County Convention for the office of District Attorney. Glancey was the editor of the Press, an able Republican paper. The Press adhered to the principle, recently set forth in the platform adopted by a Massachusetts State Convention, that the duty of supporting the party nominees and the duty of nominating unobjectionable candidates are reciprocal duties. In its adherence to this principle the Press made some reflections upon the character of Gray. In the course of its comments upon the nominations made by the Convention, the Press said:

"For District Attorney a man who goes by the name of Gray, with many aliases it is impossible to say, was nominated. The charity of our silence is more than he can expect."

On Friday evening the following appeared in the Press:

"Not the least of these in this country is the fact that the Republicans here will be relieved of the necessity of defeating their candidate for District Attorney. The nomination was disgraceful in every respect, and while it is extremely disagreeable to earnest Republicans to take such a course in a Presidential year, there is no difference of opinion among those who have the good of the party at heart. They are convinced that all such candidates should be beaten and Republican Conventions taught, if they do not realize it already, that the decent people of Santa Barbara county will not submit to having the officers of the law chosen from among the hoodlums and law-breakers."

The next day Gray met Glancey on the street and asked if he were the author of the last article referred to. Glancey replied that he was, whereupon Gray poured out a volley of abuse, and drawing a pistol fired, inflicting a wound from which Glancey died on the following morning. The editor's last words were:

"Tell my friends that I die like a man—die for a principle, and would not go back on it now if I could."

Clarence Gray, the murderer, is a man with a bad reputation. The S. F. Call says of him:

"In 1875 he publicly vilified the private character of Miss La Grange, sister of Gen. O. H. La Grange, who was in charge of the Press at the time, and was publicly called to account therefor by another brother, who gave emphasis to a demand for a retraction by a shot from a revolver, which failed to hit Gray. Three years ago he became embroiled in a personal encounter with Mr. Coryall, at the time city editor of the Press, and the latter thrashed him badly. Two years ago the Fourth of July last, he was engaged in a street affray with Barney Lincoln, a prominent Democratic politician. Both parties emptied their revolvers, but bad marksmanship prevented any damage being done."

Gray has lived in Santa Barbara ten years, and has had considerable practice in the courts, enjoying and reputation of being a good criminal lawyer. His quarrelsome disposition was well known and he was considered a dangerous man. Glancey, on the other hand, was noted for his integrity, his public spirit and his unflinching devotion to duty. Of undoubted personal courage, he fearlessly exposed himself to danger, never carrying a weapon, though often urged to do so. Gray must have known that Glancey was in the habit of going unarmed, and this circumstance makes the shooting a brutal and cowardly assassination.

The murder of Glancey is a calamity to the Coast. He was a man of convictions and dared to maintain them. He was a clever journalist, witty and bright, with the power to hit hard blows with polished words. Santa Barbara should be sensible of the loss it has sustained in the death of such a man, and should see to it that stern justice be meted out to his assassin.

This affair gives rise to some general considerations of the sentiments and the passions in which it originated. There is a certain class of men who are always ready to justify any form of person assault upon an editor. Yet it is seldom that a newspaper attack upon any man originates in the personal ill will of the editor towards its object. A decent man, in charge of a newspaper is very reluctant to assail the private character of any man. Yet his duty to his readers, if he be not timid, will sometimes oblige him to write unpleasant articles. The character of any candidate for an office of trust and responsibility is legitimate matter for comment either from the press or the platform. Public sentiment should support any newspaper which, from proper motives, exposes the bad character of a man who seeks a place of public trust.

The lawyer, in behalf of a single client, even where nothing but property is concerned, claims the right to assail and denounce and tear to tatters, in open court, the character of a witness. And this not from any considerations of principle, but simply because he is paid to do it in the interests of his client. Yet it is extremely rare for the aggrieved party to seek personal satisfaction, even though his character may have been unjustly and scandalously attacked. But why should the lawyer, who confessedly works for pay, enjoy such an immunity, while the editor who is actuated, or should be actuated by principle, is liable to be shot down for an article written in defense of the people's rights? It is a vicious and depraved sentiment which considers an editor a fair subject for personal assault for the slightest degree of offence given to some idiot by a newspaper article.

There is a useful lesson to be drawn from this affair by men engaged in the business of making newspapers. Until the public sentiment becomes more healthy in regard to thrashing and shooting editors, the fraternity will do well to run no risks. Let them be always prepared for such murderous assaults as that by which the gallant Glancey lost his life. And if an editor be killed in the discharge of his duty, the community which he sought to benefit should be sufficiently grateful for his services to see that his murderer suffers the penalty of the law. Until an enlightened public sentiment frowns down all recourse to the knife and pistol to kill the just liberty of the press, so long may corruption be expected to flourish in public offices and venality to sit in high places.

STARTLING POSSIBILITIES.

The following is an extract from a recent speech delivered at Indianapolis by Senator John A. Logan, of Illinois:

"On the 23d of February, 1861, less than ten days before the expiration of the administration of President Buchanan, and when secession had already become a fact as regarded several Southern States, Mr. Brand of North Carolina introduced a resolution in the House asking that a regiment of troops, then stationed at Washington, should be withdrawn. The object of that resolution was evident. With these troops out of the way, the control of Washington would have rested wholly with the municipal officials and these were known to be in complete sympathy with the secessionists, who had declared that a Republican President should never be inaugurated in Washington. A Douglas Democrat moved to lay the resolution on the table. When the ayes and noes were called every Southern Democrat in the House—there were but twenty-four of them left—voted against laying on the table. Every Northern member, Republican and Democrat, except one, voted to lay on the table this proposition, and leave the National Capital defenseless to the threatened assaults of armed treason. One Northern Democrat voted with the solid body of Southern secessionists to throw open the gates to treason and rebellion. One Northern Democrat voted with all the Southern secessionists left to strip the Government of its last defense against its traitorous enemies. That one Northern Democrat ally of Southern treason was William H. English of Indiana, the present Democratic candidate for Vice President."

William H. English of Indiana is the Democratic nominee for Vice President. Suppose the Democratic ticket should be elected and that the Senate and House of Representatives should be both Democratic. Then let Hancock die, and the Solid South make a move to leave the Union. English, acting as President, would let the South go, standing ready to play into the hands of the rebels as he did once before. Loyal voters have these possibilities to consider before they cast their ballots next November.

How does Col. Fair's candidacy affect the Republican candidates? It seems to be the impression that no one else has a hope on that side, except Mr. Sharon. The Storey county primaries were undoubtedly carried by his friends, and unless Mr. Wren has hopes, we can see no one to carry our banner into the fight with any prospect of success, except Mr. Sharon. We cannot conceal our disappointment at the turn things have taken, but there may changes take place between now and January first to put a different face on the matter.

GOOD SENSE FROM THE "BULLETIN."

Nevada is one of the most reliable Republican States in the Union. Its Electoral vote since its admission has always been given to the Republican candidates. On one or two occasions it sent a Democrat to the Lower House of Congress. But its Senators have always been Republican. Neither its electoral vote nor the Senator who is to be elected this fall can be spared by the Republican party. Three votes in a contest which may be very close are not to be overlooked. The Republicans can lose New York and New Jersey, and elect their President, but they will want every other Northern electoral vote to do so.

The Senate is of scarcely less importance than the Presidential ticket. If the Republicans could recover their ascendancy there, the political outlook would be more reassuring. The Senate at this moment is Democratic by ten majority. The progress in this direction has been quite satisfactory. The Republicans have gained one seat in Ohio. The chances are that they will gain one in Pennsylvania. But they must hold the seats they have now. The next Senator from California will be likely to be a Republican, no matter what happens. There are twenty-four hold-over Republican Senators. In case of emergency one or two more Senators elected on other tickets are ready to enter the Republican caucus. At the outside the Republicans have only to elect thirty-seven Assemblymen out of eighty to secure control of the joint Convention. This they are pretty certain to do, no matter how things may fall out.

But there is danger of the loss of the Senatorship from Nevada. This results from the fact that Mr. Sharon persists in running for office. He has been most of the time in this city. No very strong efforts have been made to induce him to resign, because the Governor of Nevada was a Democrat during the early part of his term, and would, in the event of his resignation, have been sure to fill the vacancy with a member of his own party. If Nevada is to be judged by any other community in the United States, a Senator who is a non-resident, and has so uniformly neglected the duties of his office, cannot be very popular there. It is the general opinion that his candidacy for re-election will greatly militate against the Republicans. It is believed it will produce lukewarmness at a time when it is essential that every man should be in line. There are many strong Republicans in Nevada who are deserving of the place. Clearly, Mr. Sharon ought to declare unequivocally, that under no circumstances will he be a candidate for re-election to the Senate, and at the same time he owes his party his powerful aid towards the effort to secure the election of some Republican resident of Nevada as his successor.

TURNING YANKEE.

The Journal is turning Yankee. It answers one question by asking another. On Friday the GAZETTE made mention of numerous public stories that some one on that side of the house was trying to trade county officers for a big vote for the legislative ticket. On Sunday the Journal quoted some approving remarks we made about Judge Beatty and said that looked as if we were trading county votes for the State ticket. This caused many to smile, but we will treat it seriously and say there is nothing in it. We should consider it traitorous to go into a fight for nominations and then trade off any part of the ticket.

A New Sort of Barrels.

From the Detroit Tribune.

The body of the barrel is all made in one piece, from coarse wood pulp. The pressure to which it is subjected is 400 tons. The heads are made of one piece in the same way, and when put together the barrels are exceedingly light, strong and satisfactory every way. There are two kinds, one for fruit, flour and other dry substances; the other for oil, lard and liquids of all kinds. A flour barrel made in this way can be dropped from a wagon to the pavement without injury. Fruit packed in these receptacles keeps longer than when put up in the usual way, being dry and excluded from the air. The barrels for liquid substances are made by subjecting the first to a simple process, and oil can be kept in them without any leakage. The saving in cost is about fifty per cent.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Good christians who have always considered the fast in the wilderness as a miracle will be somewhat surprised at this from Scribner's, of which Rev. J. G. Holland is editor: "One thing, at least, Dr. Tanner has done. He has removed the fast of Christ from the realm of miracle, and made that credible to the disbeliever in miracles which seemed to him like a fable of an idle tale."

The New York market was so glutted with mines at last accounts, that all the Californians with mines for sale were leaving in disgust. The New Yorkers have been bored so much with importunities to buy mining property, that not long ago, as the story runs, a notice was stuck up in the office of a leading hotel, bearing this inscription: "No mines taken in payment for board."

This is the Greenback Electoral ticket for Nevada: W. Scott Williams of Humboldt, Horace L. Hurd of Churchill, H. H. Hogan of Washoe. Any man who wants to throw away his vote can vote this ticket.

Sunset Cox denied the accusation that he had been unlawfully franking campaign documents through the mails. Now that proof of the charge has been produced, the flowery Senator must be in a bad way.

It is thought in Chicago that Speaker Randall will not be re-elected this fall. He is working tooth and nail, but the odds are against him.

This thing of shooting editors has gone far enough. Let the next editor assailed admit daylight to the interior of his assailant.

Gen. Hancock says that he would not consent, as President, to the payment of rebel claims. Bob Toombs and the other brigadiers won't like this.

The next Methodist Conference will be held in Carson.

MISCELLANEOUS.

There have been 140 duels in France within eight months, without the loss of a single life.

A bride of a week returned to her parents, at Bay City, Mich., because her husband made her black his boots.

Geo. Larkin spat at Libby Steele, in a St. Paul street, and was instantly killed with a knife by Robert Barton, her escort.

The daughters of the present European rulers do not support the common theory of the novel and the stage, that aristocratic blood causes delicacy and refinement of face. They are, as a rule, rather coarse and common as to features.

Stanley Carver, a young man well known in Baltimore, was to have been married, but though many friends congregated at the residence of the young lady, bringing presents to the value of several hundred dollars, the bridegroom came not. After a long and embarrassing delay, the girl retired heartbroken, and the guests, after partaking of the feast, left for their homes.

A Welshman was on exhibition in London for some days as a faster. He was to forfeit £50 for every day he tasted food during two weeks. A watch was organized, and the public was admitted on condition of purchasing drinks. The man made a strong attempt to carry out his undertaking, but after six days he fell from a sofa in a state of coma, and only revived when fed.

A girl was found nailed to a plank, so that she could move neither hand nor foot, and floating on the Yangtze river, in China. Beside her was the head of a Buddhist priest, and some coins. An inscription said: "This money is provided for her coffin when she is dead." She belonged to a wealthy family, and her two brothers, petty mandarins, used this cruel treatment because she married the priest whose head was on the plank with her.

Set Back 42 Years.

I was troubled for many years with Kidney Complaint, Gravel, etc.; my blood became thin; I was dull and inactive; could hardly crawl about; was an old man all over; could get nothing to help me, until I got Hop Bitters, and now I am a boy again. My blood and kidneys are all right, and I am as active as a man of 30, although I am 73, and I have no doubt it will do as well for others of my age. It is worth a trial.—(Father.)—Sunday Mercury.

A cracked church bell at Carson has been successfully repaired at the railroad shops, by running molten metal into the crack of the bell, first placing it in an earthen mould. Bell founders have held this feat to be impossible.

Great Salt Lake is 5,300 feet above the sea. There is a saline deposit underneath it. The waters have six times the density of those of the sea. The salt lies in drifts along the shore. The water has risen ten feet since 1847.

September 19th, near Nelson creek, Sierra county, the remains of James Gould, who disappeared from Howland Flat last June, were found. Whether he was attacked by some wild beast, or lost his way and perished from hunger, or was murdered, will probably never be known.

Says the Anaheim Gazette: A man and his wife who live upon some land between the Chino rancho and the hills told the doctor that they had killed 750 tarantulas in one month. The wife killed 40 in the "yard" in a few minutes one evening. An effort was made to burn Eureka last Wednesday evening. The attempt was made in the rear of the house of Wm. Emerick, of the firm of Brown, Tassel & Co. Luckily it was seen in time to be put out without doing any damage. The back part of the house had been saturated with coal-oil for a space twelve feet square.

The Executive Committee of colored citizens of the State of California have issued a call for a State Convention to convene in San Francisco October 6th, 1880, to consider the present and future status of said race in that State, and their relative condition throughout the country. Delegates are expected from all parts of the State.

Coal oil retails at Gunnison for $1 per gallon; hay at 5c per pound—by the ball at 4c; oats at 5c; corn 4 1/2c; flour (Harvest Queen), half sack, $7; potatoes 7c; turnips 8c; onions 10c; eggs 40 and 50c; butter 30c and 60c; coffee, browned 35c; meat 8 to 20c; nails 10c—by keg $9; coal $10 50 and $12 per ton.

"I'm a son of a gun from California," shouted a desperado with an ominous looking belt filled with dangerous war tools, after he had swallowed seven glasses of beer and blowed the froth all over the bartender every load. "Yes, I know you was a son of a gun, but I didn't know 'at State you was from," quoth the knight of the white apron.—Bloomington Eve.

In San Diego, in the yard of Mr. Hiscock, is a Mission grapevine five years old, which has a length of forty-two feet. The circumference of the main stem is ten inches. It is loaded with grapes. The vine has never received any care, having flourished in the face of drought and neglect.

Says the Mountain Review, Susanville: The first clean-up made by the Honey Lakers at Granite Basin was made a few days ago, and from thirty tons of rocks they extracted $580, an average of about $18 per ton. This was crushed in a new mill, and no doubt some of the gold was lost. The boys have made a good hit, and we are glad of it.

A placer mine has been found in Lassen. In the spring, the wife of J. T. McKnight, who lives at the base of Diamond Mountain, killed a chicken, in the gizzard of which she found a piece of gold worth "six bits." In another, sold to a neighbor, was found a piece weighing $1. This set McKnight to prospecting, and he was successful. He will soon commence mining, as there is every facility for water.

And Yet Editors Dislike to be Thrashed.

From the New York Graphic.

The great gain in thrashing editors is notoriety for all parties concerned. Usually such notoriety, if properly handled, benefits the editor. It gives his paper an enormous advertisement gratis, extending through all the States and Territories and sometimes to other kingdoms and countries. It sometimes causes the name of the editor to be published in French, German, Spanish, Italian and Russian journals, and read in all the capitals of Europe. This is another result of thrashing an editor. Then it seldom redresses the evil for which the thrashing is done. It bruits it abroad anew; it distorts magnifies and misrepresents it.

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

A large California lion was seen near Truckee last week.

A Tarlesse, for the killing W. H. Harrison at Eureka, has been found guilty of manslaughter.

Parties hunting in the Saw-tooth range, in Southern Idaho, report killing a mountain goat that weighed 250 pounds.

Jesse R. Grant, son of the ex-President, was married in San Francisco Tuesday night to Miss Lizzie Chapman. The affair was gorgeous.

Jimmy Brewster, a Lodi lad, at twelve years of age, met with a painful accident on Thursday. While swinging on the horizontal bar, he broke one of his arms.

The hoisting works of the Providence Company, near Nevada City, caught fire on the 21st, and several boxes of giant powder exploded. The loss of the Providence Company was $30,000.

A Strange Death.

The Portland Bulletin speaks of the death of a man called "the f-breed Tom," in the Big Lake country, on September 1st. Tom was out hunting for cattle and riding an unbroken horse. He saw a fawn about fifty yards from him, and, no doubt, thinking what fine sport it would be to lasso it, he prepared his lasso, and, while swinging the noose above his head, it lay some unaccountable mishap, struck his neck, and the horse, dying at the same time threw Tom to the ground, ran away and choked him to death.

A Simple Rule for Working Interest.

From the Truckee Republican.
Multiply the principal by the whole number of days, that produce by the rate per cent., and divide by 360. Example—What is the interest on $250 for 3 months and 11 days at 1% per cent. per month. $250x101x18=360=12.625.

What Lundy Most Needs.

From the Mining Index.
Our great want is a church, where we can meditate for an hour on the Sabbath, and be exhorted by some earnest preacher. If he were so fixed that he could set up the beer and cigar for the boys the congregation would be large.

70,000 Carriages

Manufactured by Emerson, Fisher & Co., are now in use in every part of the American Continent.

They give unfailing satisfaction. All their work is warranted.

They have received testimonials from all parts of the country of purport similar to the following, hundreds of which are on file subject to inspection:

Wm. Emerson, Fisher & Co. GAITHER, Tenn., July 16, 1879.

I have used one of your Top Buggies three years and three of them two years in my family, and they have given me perfect satisfaction and are in constant use.

OSCAR SMALLY.

Mrs. Emerson, Fisher & Co. N. W. B. L. S. C., July 17, 1879.

Dear Sir:—I have been using the Emerson & Fisher buggies I bought from you as long as I suppose as any one could. I had four of them. Some of them with two or three ladies and myself in the buggy and it is today worth all the money I paid for it. I say the Emerson & Fisher Buggies will do.

A. M. TEAGUE, Farmer.

The favorable reputation the Carriages have made in localities where they have been used for several years by Livermen, Physicians, Farmers and others requiring hard and constant use, has led to an increased demand from those localities, to meet which the manufacturing facilities of their mammoth establishment have been extended, enabling them now to turn out in good style.
